

Abstract

What is disclosed is a process for mechanical and biological processing of waste substances, in particular of residual waste, wherein a physico-chemical processing (PCP) for the denitrification of a process water freed from organic constituents is provided, as well as a hybrid reactor comprising a solid bed, sludge discharge means, and means for destroying a surface scum.